Script: “When death was defeated” - Tomb Scene

Imagine the moment when death was defeated.

Imagine the resounding power of his first breath - with the rise of his chest, the burial clothes meant to confine him, loosened their hold.

The grave had lost its power.

Imagine the authority forever settled on earth as his toes touch the ground. His feet once wounded for you and for me, now standing, crushing the enemies plans.

Death and hell had been defeated.

Imagine the song that filled all of heaven as his voice again resounded in the darkness – the same voice that called out to Lazarus, now commanding his own grave stone be rolled away.

The Word returned to flesh alive forevermore.

Imagine the blinding light as he walked out of the grave, victorious over darkness forever.

Imagine the moment... when death was defeated.
