

Propelled By Love: Poured, Proven & Promised

Week #9 Romans 5:1-11

Discussion Questions:

1. What Keeps Us Silent?

In what ways have you experienced fear, self-protection, or relational comfort keeping you from sharing the Gospel with someone you care about? What would it look like to love them more than your own comfort?

2. Do I Really Believe This?

If someone examined your calendar, your conversations, and your concerns, would they conclude that you truly believe the Gospel is the only hope for the people around you? What would change if you lived more fully in light of that belief?

3. Who's Defining My Relationships?

Are there people in your life whose acceptance you value more than their eternal soul? What would it look like to allow Jesus—not fear or social pressure—to define how you relate to them?

4. Rejoicing in Reconciliation

What difference does it make in your daily life to know that you are not just forgiven but fully reconciled to God? How can this truth shape your worship, your identity, and your willingness to reach others?

5. What Does Reconciliation Impact to Me?

How does understanding your reconciliation with God impact how you see yourself and how you approach others who don't yet know Him? Where might you need to extend that same grace?

6. Am I Living Like I'm Loved?

What would change about your emotional or spiritual life if you truly believed that God's love is continually being poured into your heart right now? Where do you need to be reminded today that you are loved, secure, and reconciled?
